Province to investigate serious sewage spill

No immediate health risk to Manitobans, province says ◐ Province taking water samples downstream

The provincial government has gone into investigation mode after it was reported the City of Winnipeg has been dumping millions of litres of half-treated sewage into the Red River for almost a month.

City of Winnipeg officials told the public on Wednesday an unidentified problem at the South End Water Pollution Control Centre means sewage being processed at the plant is not fully treated when it enters the river. Officials said organisms used to treat the waste have died off for unknown reasons.

Up to 60 million litres a day are being dumped into the river, meaning about 1.5 billion litres of half-treated waste have entered the watershed since the problem began on Oct. 7.

Provincial officials chided the city, which only informed the province of the problem on Nov. 1. Manitoba Conservation minister Dave Chomiak told reporters the province should have been notified within 12 hours.

"This should not happen.... It's very clear the plants have to be upgraded and functioning effectively as soon as possible," said Chomiak.

Mayor Sam Katz, who also only found out about the problem on Nov. 1, told reporters at city hall Thursday the delay was unacceptable. "The mayor and council should have been aware, right at the beginning of the process, that there (was) a problem," he said.

The province said they will conduct a full review and may decide to press charges against the city, which is now in violation of the Enviornment Act. ELISHA DACEY

What the province said:

- "As part of the review, Manitoba Conservation has requested a detailed chronology of events, sampling results and actions that were taken by the city during this period."
- "As well, Manitoba Conservation is gathering samples of the waste water to determine if the city is in compliance with the requirements of its licence."

Protesters asked to take tents down

Occupy Winnipeg holds meeting and decides to keep tents up

SEAN LEDWICH
@METRONEWS.CA

Occupy Winnipeg had its first sign of conflict with the province Oct. 29 as they erected a large tent at Memorial Park.

The yurt-like structure, made from wood fencing and tarps, was being set-up along with a similarly-sized 20-foot-by-20-foot festival pole tent when legislature security asked the occupiers to take it down.

"We had an emergency general assembly and by consensus, we agreed that the structure was integral to our survival," occupier Jason Ross said.

"We informed the security that we were putting it up regardless."

As the movement that began with Occupy Wall Street in mid-September has spread to more than 1,700 cities worldwide, forced evictions and deadlines to vacate have become more common.

Occupy Winnipeg, however, has not been asked to leave. On the contrary, they say all contact with authorities has been positive prior to this past weekend.

"Whether it's been law enforcement or security, they've come here to just help us.

"To make sure that we're OK," Terry Weaymouth said.

A spokesperson for the province — which holds jurisdiction over the park — would only say the province will "continue to address any concerns directly with the group." Communication between the occupiers and the province is ongoing, the spokesperson said, and no request to vacate the park has been made.

"We have told them our primary concern is safety and general public access to Memorial Park."

As winter approaches the occupiers have put out a call for, and are receiving, wooden pallets which they plan to install as flooring for their tents.

Truck rolls near Perimeter Highway

There were major traffic delays for those heading outside of Winnipeg Thursday morning after a semi-truck rolled near the Perimeter Highway.

The truck, which was loaded with dry goods, rolled while turning off the cloverleaf onto Portage Avenue westbound just outside the city. Police were at the scene at about 6 a.m. The driver was not injured. There were traffic delays stretching as long as 25 minutes during the morning. See photos at metronews.ca/winnipeg.

News in brief

Evacuation costs rising

The bill for this year's flooding in Manitoba has already cost federal taxpayers millions and that will only go up.

Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada says the tab for hotels and expenses for flood evacuees already sits at $23 million.

About 2,100 people from eight Manitoba First Nations still haven't returned home because of flooding. Half are from the Lake St. Martin First Nation near Lake Manitoba — a reserve that will have to be moved permanently to higher ground.

Gangsters killed inmate in 'timed beating': Crown

JAMES TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Members of the Native Syndicate gang are accused of killing one of their own in prison after he complained that he was owed money, a Winnipeg jury heard yesterday.

Four men — Charles Coaster, Evan Myran, Alvin Cote and Victor Ryle — are suspects in the beating death of David Tavares at Stony Mountain Institution in March 2005.

Cote, 31, Coaster, 28, and Myran, 31, have pleaded not guilty to second-degree murder. Ryle, 28, is on trial for manslaughter and has also denied wrongdoing.

The Crown alleges Ryle was the high-ranking member of the Native Syndicate at the prison who ordered Tavares punished.

Five men and seven women began hearing the Crown case against the men Thursday.

Witnesses will corroborate allegations that Tavares died while receiving a "D-boarding" — a timed beating — ordered after he spoke up about debts owed by fellow gangsters, prosecutors say.

"In doing so, they killed Tavares," Crown attorney Brian Bell said in his opening remarks.

The Crown case will rely heavily on the testimony of a Native Syndicate member and former inmate who was tasked with timing the attack, Bell said.

Jurors were also asked to disregard anything they may have heard about the case in the past.

The trial is expected to last until Nov. 23.

'D-boarding'

▶ Dr. Thambirajah Balachandra, Manitoba's chief medical examiner, testified that Tavares suffered several injuries, including fractures to his skull, facial bones and ribs. He ruled that the death was caused by blunt-force trauma.

Province outs companies stiffing workers on wages

Fines range from $500 to $10,000 after first warning Most infractions relate to wages, records

The province has started publishing the names of businesses fined for not properly paying employees or other violations of labour law.

The Manitoba Labour and Immigration Employment Standards Branch will post on its website infractions under the Employment Standards Code or the Construction Industry Wages Act.

The most common offences were failure to pay wages and failure to produce records for inspection.

A Winnipeg pizza parlour was fined $2,000 for pay violations while a propane company will pay $500 for failing to show payroll records to an inspector.

A hotel in Gillam, Man., is facing more than $13,000 in fines for two offences related to paying wages and overtime. Owner Michael Bruneau said he signed contracts with workers who agreed to exceed 40 hours per week without extra compensation, but said he didn't know that's illegal.

He paid his fines and doesn't think it's fair his business has been outed by the province. "I made a mistake, I paid my fine, it's history," he said.

Dave Angus of the Chamber of Commerce said officials should be careful not to publicly embarrass businesses that might not deserve it. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Natives will rise again: Hockey boss

The troubled Neepawa Natives will likely replace players who have left or been traded, the commissioner of the Manitoba Junior Hockey League said Thursday.

Kim Davis was reacting to the latest defections from the club. The Natives have reportedly reduced their roster to about 14 for their latest game amid fallout from a hazing investigation — which led to suspensions and a $5,000 fine — and an investigation by retired Winnipeg police detective Ron Bell.

Team officials could not be reached for comment, but Davis said other teams have coped successfully with injuries, illness and mishaps.

"There have been many teams in our history that have had periods of time, short periods of time, when they've been undermanned, if I could call it that, for various reasons," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Local man dies in crash

A Winnipeg man was found dead after a collision near Esterhazy, Sask., on Wednesday. RCMP in Esterhazy said the man, 50, hit a tractor that was towing a cultivator and veered off the road into a field. He was found dead in his car about 1.5 kilometres from the scene of the accident in a shallow slough. His name has not been released.

How to spend your free time

As clocks fall back, survey asks how people would spend extra hours

Sleep, sweep or spend quality time.

That's what most Canadians say they would do with just one extra hour, according to a new Angus Reid survey.

With the clocks set to fall back an hour this weekend, the survey found a quarter of Canadians would take that hour to invest time in their relationships, while a nearly equal number would choose to catch up on chores or get some added shut-eye, at 24 and 22 per cent respectively.

Another six per cent said they would pursue personal interests or hobbies, five per cent said they would devote their precious hour to community service, and — not surprisingly — a mere three per cent said they would devote the time to work.

This Sunday, Canadians across the country will push their clocks one hour back as daylight savings time comes to an end.

Health-care costs double in a decade

The more services a doctor delivers, the more he or she gets paid • Some specialties overpaid: Analyst

Health-care costs in Canada doubled over the past decade and will cross the $200-billion mark this year, a report released Thursday reveals.

The report shows, though, that the growth in health-care spending has actually started to slow, after rising at an average of seven per cent a year during the period from 1998 to 2008.

Health-care spending will increase by four per cent this year, the lowest percentage increase in the past 15 years, says the report, from the Canadian Institute for Health Information.

A key driver of the rising costs is what the system pays doctors. And with medical schools geared up to churn out substantially more physicians in coming years, the system could be heading for a perfect storm, a health consultant who studied the report predicts.

"The pig is moving through the python. We're starting to see the first effects of greatly increasing enrolment in medical school — the pouring out of new graduates."
STEVEN LEWIS, A CONSULTANT BASED IN SASKATOON

Steven Lewis says medical schools in the country have increased enrolments by 75 per cent over the past decade.

As those doctors graduate, Canada is moving from a state of under-supply to one of over-supply — at least in the cities. Small towns and rural settings are still plagued by a shortage of physicians.

The report dispelled the notion that the greying of the Canadian population is behind the substantial rise in health-care costs, saying population aging was responsible for under one per cent of the cost increases. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Remembrance Day drinkfest raises outcry

Having a pint on Remembrance Day to salute Canadian veterans is a time-honoured tradition, but students at New Brunswick Community College have taken things a draught too far, critics say.

An invitation to hit 11 bars in 11 hours in Saint John has not gone down well with some. Others, however, are taking the attitude of live and let live — including the Royal Canadian Legion.

It didn't take long for the phones lines at New 88.9 all-news radio in Saint John to light up with angry callers, said the station's talk show producer Shaun MacKenzie.

Organizers of the 11-hour drinkfest posted the event on Facebook, inviting one and all to the Remembrance Day Pub Crawl "to remember the brave men and women that fought for our country." They later tried to blunt the negative reaction by calling the bar hopping session the Uptown Tour. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Man sues over wedding pics, wants day recreated

A New York City man has filed a lawsuit seeking $48,000 to recreate his 2003 wedding, even though the marriage ended in divorce.

The New York Times reports that Todd Remis sued H & H Photographers, claiming that the photographers missed the last dance and the bouquet toss.

Remis wants to be repaid the $4,100 cost of the photography. He also wants $48,000 to recreate the entire wedding and fly the principals to New York so the celebration can be re-shot by another photographer.

The studio says that might be difficult since the bride has returned to her native Latvia.

An owner of the studio called the case "an abuse of the legal system."

▶ Self-taught artist Keisuke Yamada turns bananas into detailed sculptures. This image shows his intricate piece Banana Poseidon.

Bananas as art? Power fruit indeed

Creations include Homer Simpson, Kate Middleton

ANTHONY JOHNSTON
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Armed with a toothpick and a rudimentary scraper, Keisuke Yamada turns your ordinary bunch of bananas into intricate sculptures of art.

Twenty-three-year-old Yamada, electrician by day, intrepid fruit carver by night, became a viral sensation in his native Japan after images of banana busts of Kate Middleton, Homer Simpson and Davy Jones from Pirates of the Caribbean circulated the Internet.

Yamada explained to Metro why he went crazy for sculpting bananas.

"I often used to buy bananas for my mom, so there were a lot of bananas at home," he said.

"One day I was a little bored, so I began to carve out the face of an anime character in the fruit. So out of boredom, I am happy that people can say that this is art."

After feasting your eyes on this depiction of Poseidon with five horse companions, you could say the two hours Yamada spent sculpting this really bore fruit.

In truth, Yamada worked furiously against the clock to finish the job before the bananas got spoiled. "To stop the rotting process, my secret is to douse the banana with some lemon juice," Yamada told Metro.

Asked if his fruity figures are completely edible

▶ Keisuke Yamada

— with no funny glue on them — Yamada replied, "Yes, they're edible alright, but Poseidon's arms are made from toothpicks, so there are some 'bones' there.

"I eat my sculptures after I have completed them. But to be honest, I don't really like bananas. I've gotten tired of eating them!"

Debt talks on track: Harper

French President Nicolas Sarkozy issued a dark warning against the "explosion" of Europe on Thursday even as Greece appeared to pull back from a referendum plan that's undermining a crucial financial bailout.

But while Sarkozy was raising the spectre of Europe's devastating 20th century wars, Prime Minister Stephen Harper offered a more soothing take, saying "cooler heads will prevail."

The extraordinary day of fast-moving events came as G20 leaders, including Harper, began 24 hours of talks aimed at stabilizing the global economy and avoiding another world recession.

Harper told Canadian reporters that contingency plans for Greece's exit from the eurozone were discussed during talks Thursday afternoon, but that events in Athens appeared to be moving in the right direction.

"My expectation is that cooler heads will prevail and the (bailout) package will be accepted and we'll move forward on that basis," the Prime Minister said.

Greek opposition leader calls on prime minister to resign

Demanding that the prime minister resign, the main Greek opposition leader led his party in a dramatic walkout Thursday during a parliamentary debate about the viability of the government.

Antonis Samaras' statements came amid an intense political crisis in Greece, after Prime Minister George Papandreou shocked the country, European leaders and financial markets earlier this week by saying he wanted to put a hard-fought new European debt deal to a popular vote.

Papandreou abandoned that plan Thursday as the uproar spread even to his own ruling Socialist party.

BIEBER FANS HIT SEVEN BILLION MARK

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 Count it: This week, the UN Population Fund announced the world's seven-billionth person, but when other census groups differed, the UN admitted the number was only an estimate. It seems they might just be off by 20 or so million people. No biggie. Do you think I can get one of those guys to do my taxes?

2 1-on-1: JAMOP (Just a Minute of Possibility) is an organization dedicated to uniting everyone toward the common goal of peace.

Their symbol, 11:11 points to a climactic milestone next Friday 11/11/2011 at 11:11 (See JAMOP.com).

The notion of the 1s is that if one person, in one minute, with one action can make a change, then imagine what we could achieve if everyone entered one universal, simultaneous plea. Who could argue with that, right? Religious leaders are dismissing it as we speak.

3 Pass the Plato: In 2010, "austerity" was named Word of the Year by Merriam-Webster. Coincidentally, the term is derived from the ancient Greek phrase meaning "Put it on my tab."

4 The Tortoise and his hair: Last year, Lady Gaga became the first artist to reach a billion hits on YouTube, but Justin Bieber surpassed her on his way to two billion. It was actually more impressive before I discovered that five billion people did NOT view him (give or take 20 million).

5 Never-lasting love: News of the Kardashian breakup has left us all in shock. Kris Humphries' three-year NBA contract pays him $3.2 million per year, but the NBA lockout has left him lacking. Kim, understandably irritated from the pressure of being their sole provider for what seemed like weeks, was quoted as saying, "Stop mooching, get off your ass and go to work." Can someone remind me what she does for a living?

6 What time is it?: It's Movember again. Time to get your 'stache on! Decisions: Do I go with the pencil-thin lip-liner? the thick '70s-porno look? Fu Manchu? handlebar? We know the Charlie Chaplin is out (requires too much explanation). I think the more important question is, on what basis does the idea of the moustache correlate to the prostate? On second thought, I don't want to know.

7 Required by law: Despite consistently violating probation, Lindsay Lohan manages to avoid jail time. Nevertheless, she has definitely learned a lesson: that her lawyers are better than Martha Stewart's but not quite as good as Casey Anthony's.

8 Dazed and confused: Health Canada is lobbying to shift the responsibility of approving medical marijuana away from themselves and over to our doctors. Representatives at Frito-Lay and Nabisco say they wholeheartedly support the decision.

9 On the bright side: I have a year to re-evaluate next year's Halloween costume. My wife and I were thinking of going as Jay-Z and Beyoncé, but now we're not so sure.

Letters

RE: Crime 'can't be eliminated by policing alone': Chief, published Nov. 1

Maybe the highest focus for our city to help curb this problem is punishment.

What seems to be a problem is the fact that the people committing these crimes are not getting a fair punishment or jail sentence. Offenders are getting minimal sentences, then are getting double time served for any time in remand while awaiting their sentencing.

It becomes novelty to some of these people. Instead of being scared straight, people are going right back out and committing more violent crimes. People are getting a free pass and the only people affected are the victims. If we want less violent crimes on the street, then why aren't the offenders spending more time in prison? Isn't that what a jail sentence is supposed to be? A deterrent for anyone to re-offend in the future.

When two systems seem to conflict, it puts doubt in people's mind that the current system is functioning on the expected levels.

WEIRD NEWS

Just kidding! I'm not an illegal immigrant

An American man who claimed to be an illegal immigrant from Mexico to avoid going to prison is now wanted by police.

Jaime Alvarado, 27, of Salt Lake City, was charged in Utah for giving false material statements.

The charges stem from a 2010 arrest when Alvarado told police, a Utah state courts judge and federal immigration officials that he was actually Saul Quiroz and had emigrated from Mexico illegally. At the time, Alvarado was facing up to 15 years in prison for the possession of cocaine and heroin with the intent to distribute.

Instead of going to prison, Alvarado was deported to Mexico based on his false identity, according to court records. But he then returned to the United States using his American passport and earlier this year was arrested on an outstanding warrant connected to his guilty plea.

On Feb. 3, Alvarado acknowledged during a court hearing that he had lied about his identity.

The case was turned over to U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement who determined that Alvarado was a legal citizen and released him in June. A $50,000 warrant was issued Oct. 31 for his arrest. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synopsis

- Allan Alda is Arthur Shaw, a Bernie Madoff character whose Ponzi scheme defrauded his clients out of millions of dollars. Among those burned were the employees of his luxury high rise. Having lost his pension plan, the building's manager Josh Kovacs (Ben Stiller) concocts a plan to break into Shaw's apartment and steal his $20 million stash. When his posse of employees prove to be less than criminally adept, Kovacs brings in an old friend and ex-con, Slide (Eddie Murphy), to help.

Stealing laughs

Fine ensemble of comedy actors saves the hackneyed plot of Tower Heist

Richard: Mark, it's nice to see Eddie Murphy in a movie that allows him to drop his beloved family entertainer guise and bring back some of the bravado that we loved in movies like 48 Hours. It's just too bad the movie feels like it was made 30 years ago. Despite its Bernie Madoff storyline it feels old-fashioned.

MB: Of course it feels old-fashioned. It's an Eddie Murphy movie circa 1990. If not for the hairstyles, you could almost believe it was an unreleased film from that era finally freed from some legal limbo. But you have to admit, it's great to see Murphy doing the kind of work he should have been doing over the last two decades. So, sure the plot feels hackneyed. But it's the fine ensemble cast that makes this thing click. My favourite? Matthew Broderick. Yours, Richard?

RC: For me it was Michael Pena. Great comic timing, perpetual dazed look on his face. He and Murphy were the high points for me. It was interesting, however, to see Ben Stiller as the straight man to Murphy's wisecracks. Loved hearing Murphyisms like, "I will blow your face clean off your face!"

MB: Well, I haven't liked Stiller in anything for quite a while, and I appreciated his comic restraint here, penance perhaps for all his shameless mugging in those Night at The Museum movies. I will admit the whole enterprise does have a retro vibe, including Tea Leoni and Alan Alda in key roles, but Gabourey Sidibe freshens up the cast in a comic turn a million light years from what she did in Precious.

RC: She is a pleasant surprise. I just couldn't shake the feeling that the actual robbery, despite a few twists here and there, was completely unbelievable. I don't mind suspending part of my disbelief but the sheer lunacy of the crime took me out of the movie.

MB: I went with it because it was fun, if not credible. But I must say I enjoy the irony of any film that critiques the class system in America starring actors each worth half a billion dollars.

Billy lives on

War veteran character goes from the stage to the big screen

AARON VINCENT ELKAIM/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Canadian performers John Gray and Eric Peterson are still willing to battle future incarnations of Billy Bishop Goes to War.

Their lauded, long-running stage musical — which is now a film that opens Friday in Toronto and other cities later this month — depicts the life of First World War flying ace Billy Bishop of Owen Sound, Ont.

When it debuted in 1978, Peterson played Bishop as a young man who'd just returned from war. Gray accompanied on piano and sang along with him.

"The film is a very, very small capsule of the intensity of the time that formed him and how he looks back on it so many years later."
DIRECTOR BARBARA WILLIS-SWEETE

Over the years, they've revived the show around the world and updated it to suit their ages: a 1998 version depicted Bishop as a war veteran, and the latest incarnation has a 62-year-old Bishop in the last year of his life.

Now both 65, Gray and Peterson — who won a Governor General's award for creating the show — say they're open to the idea of exploring Bishop's life from yet another angle.

"We are older than Billy Bishop ever lived to be but ... this is the world of theatre and film, where everything is possible. So yes, there could be another chapter," Peterson said in an interview at last September's Toronto International Film Festival, where Billy Bishop Goes to War screened.

"I'm actually secretly practising with a walker, you know, and a wheelchair," the former Corner Gas star added with a cackle. "I'm sure that we could do something with this."

"He wants a trap door (that) opens and flames come out," interjected Gray.

"And we come out from hell to enact the story of my life," replied Peterson in jest.

"Who knows, eh? Who knows. Or maybe we'll just be like the two old guys sitting in the audience going, 'I love this play! We were in it once, you know!' ... I don't want to give up the notion that there's some future production of it."

British Columbia native Barbara Willis-Sweete directs the feature film version of the story, written and composed by Gray and Peterson.

Shot in summer 2010, the film is set in an empty theatre, on a stage designed to look like an attic. A pyjama-clad Bishop (Peterson) reminisces about his life while Gray provides the music.

Surrounded by model airplanes, war medals and an old projector, Bishop describes how he came to enlist in the military and went into war at age 20. He wasn't keen to join the fight but when he got a chance to fly, he felt like a king.

"I think for him (flying) made war more palatable because it's abstract up there and you don't actually face the blood and the guts," said Willis-Sweete, who's seen all the incarnations of Billy Bishop Goes to War over the years.

"But he was transformed completely when he actually saw someone die — when he actually saw the results of what he was doing."

By the end of the war, Bishop had become a pacifist, she added. Later in his life, he was plagued by alcoholism. THE CANADIAN PRESS

How to cast Greek gods

Immortals director Tarsem Singh explains why he cast fit young specimens instead of bearded old men as Greek gods Expects some audience backlash for his decision

"I say yes, wisdom can come with age, but I know a lot of stupid old people"
DIRECTOR TARSEM SINGH ON CASTING YOUNG ACTORS AS GREEK GODS

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT

Tarsem Singh says he cast his Greek gods as young and fit because he reasoned anyone who could live forever would want to stay at their peak.

Visionary Indian director Tarsem Singh is known for his bold visuals — as seen in his previous films the Cell and the Fall — so a fair amount of spectacle is to be expected for his take on Greek mythology, Immortals. But the boldest visuals might be the gods themselves, portrayed here as fit, young specimens instead of the usual bearded old men. It's an approach Tarsem knew would be controversial — though he admits he wasn't prepared for just how much blowback he'd get.

Your Greek gods are a lot more fit in this movie than we're used to seeing.
Immortals is an action flick, and I decided it wasn't going to be CGI flying and fighting and pointing fingers and lightning coming out from people's fingers. Once I decided I wasn't going to go there, I needed physically fit specimens. So I just said OK, why would I go young with them? And I started to look for reasons, and the reason just being that if you wanted to live forever, nobody wants to look old and miserable and be carrying a catheter around in later-on years. So I said at the peak is where you'd like to stay. And also that solved a lot of questions which in the end in the movie didn't make it that much — the idea of all these Greek guys having incest and all that. It just made much more sense if you had body beautiful. You'd be sleeping with the daughter. We had a lot of that, and people balked against it. It makes a lot more sense. If everybody looked really beautiful and didn't age, the daughters would have to move out of the house.

Greek mythology is very soap opera-y.
Very! And for most people, they don't see it as that. They're just, "No no no! Zeus was this mighty guy, a voice of reason." The guy who got pissed off at everybody else and kept killing the wrong people? And then slept with so-and-so's daughter, so-and-so's son and everything? And then Poseidon coming down and impregnating people through water? It's just like, no they were nasty f--ups. And basically soap opera is the right thing.

What did you think of the most recent depiction of the gods in Clash of the Titans?
Clash was unfortunately so hurried in competition, funnily enough, with us — just thinking that it had to come out before that. I said I had no interest in competing with a juggernaut that has three times my budget. If they want to turn something like that out, that's fine. But I don't know how to do gods turning cauldrons and going, "What are the humans up to?" That's so dated. Ours, I see a lot of people actually going negatively against it, saying it's such a fascist thing. It's usually older people or people just thinking wisdom only comes with age — or when you're old-looking. I say yes, wisdom can come with age, but I know a lot of stupid old people.

Beliveau, Howe and Hull ... in a movie

Restored version of Face Off searches for new audience on DVD/Blu-ray

In the 40 years since Face Off hit Canadian movie theatres, its tale of a hot-shot hockey player who falls in love with a hippie folk singer faded into obscurity.

Face Off is set for release on DVD and Blu-ray on Nov. 15.

Along with it went little-seen movie cameos of NHL greats Jean Beliveau, Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull, George Armstrong, Derek Sanderson and a young Darryl Sittler.

Hockey fan and video distributor Jonathan Gross says he spent years tracking down a suitable print of the movie to restore it for a 40th anniversary DVD/Blu-ray release this month.

"There's no other hockey movie where there's real action and there are actual NHL players acting," says Gross, who recalls seeing the love story when it premiered in Toronto on Nov. 12, 1971.

"If you're a Leaf fan, this is must-see viewing. This takes you back to (the defunct Maple Leaf) Gardens, shots of places that don't exist anymore."

Other featured teams include the New York Rangers, Chicago Blackhawks, L.A. Kings, Montreal Canadiens and Philadelphia Flyers.

The story centres on cocky Maple Leaf rookie Billy Duke, played by acting veteran Art Hindle (Paradise Falls, North of 60, E.N.G).

As his career soars, he falls hard for rocker Sherri Lee Nelson (Trudy Young), who finds it difficult to stomach the violent world of hockey.

Hindle says he learned to skate in just two months in order to take the role, which put him in scrimmages that were staged at Maple Leaf Gardens. That material was later spliced in with actual game footage.

"We actually dropped the puck and for about five minutes we'd just skate up and down the ice and I'd have to make the plays and I'd have to keep up with the Blackhawks or the Bruins or the Rangers or whoever we were duplicating game footage with," says Hindle, who notes he was often uneasy on the blades and spent much of the time trying not to topple.

"For guys our age there's a lot of nostalgia. This is kind of the way things used to be."
VIDEO DISTRIBUTOR JONATHAN GROSS

"And the camera was on-ice as well, capturing me struggling this way and struggling that way."

Gross says the biggest challenge with the DVD release was getting permission from the NHL. Game footage in the film had been cleared for theatrical use decades ago but it had not been cleared for a home entertainment release.

"It was a hurdle," he admits, adding that part of the deal meant limiting the run to 10,000 copies of the film. "Because I have a slight relationship with the NHL they came on board."

"They understood the importance of the film."

The other challenge was bringing a damaged 35-millimetre print up to HD quality. Gross says he spent $10,000 in a bid to clean up the footage.

"It still looks a little grindhouse in places, but we had to go in frame by frame and clean it up," he admits.

"We fixed up the sound as best we could."

Hindle says Leaf all-star Jim McKenny served as his double, making the transitions between staged and real footage smoother, and making the actor look like he actually belonged on the ice.

A Very Harold & Kumar 3D Christmas
Genre: Comedy
Director: Todd Strauss-Schulson
Stars: Kal Penn, John Cho, Neil Patrick Harris

Say this much for a Very Harold and Kumar 3D Christmas: It certainly helps you forget the duo's second outing, Harold & Kumar Escape from Guantanamo Bay, ever happened. This time around, the loveable honour roll stoners (John Cho and Kal Penn) are dealing with growing older and growing apart and taking on the holidays. The brisk comedy works best when it walks that fine line between skewering holiday classics and reveling in downright filth. It's a careful balance, and the filmmakers don't always maintain it. (A tribute to a key scene in a Christmas Story involving a frozen pole and one of Harold's more sensitive areas is particularly line-crossing.) But all in all, it's good filthy fun.

Of course, what everyone's really here for is some naughty Neil Patrick Harris action, as his cameo in the first film helped make it a cult classic and relaunch his career. And he doesn't disappoint here, poking fun at his public image and even getting husband David Burtka in on the fun. His slice of screen time, including a festive, kick-line-filled song and dance followed by NPH sexually assaulting a Rockette, is the highlight of the film.

Capturing 1960s sweaty, soul energy

- Fitz and the Tantrums don't adhere to the rigidity that some artists do
- The kinetic energy and unique style set them apart from the usual pack

▶ Fitz and the Tantrums are setting themselves apart from the crowd with their unique style and sound.

Everything about Michael Fitzpatrick is befitting of a man who fronts a band called Fitz and the Tantrums.

In performance, he's a dancing machine, and in conversation he's quick with a quip and prone to emotional reactions.

"Nobody gives anybody in rock 'n' roll sh-t for being in the 10 millionth rock band," he says when the topic arises of other contemporary soul-influenced acts like Mayer Hawthorne, Sharon Jones and the Dap-Kings.

Fitzpatrick has only kind words for his peers, and he's keen to point out that within the genre, "everyone's doing their own thing."

As far as Fitz and the Tantrums are concerned, that's certainly true.

"We don't adhere to the form as rigidly as some of these other artists do, and I love their music. That's just not what we wanted to do," he says.

"We wanted to do something that was more of a hybrid. We just weren't afraid to let something that felt like it was outside of the character of soul music make its way onto the record."

What's immediately apparent from the band's 2010 debut, Pickin' Up the Pieces, is its kinetic energy. Instruments interlock without intruding upon each other and Fitzpatrick and co-singer Noelle Scaggs both constantly move in the centre of it all.

He dresses like Don Draper and sings like an angrier Daryl Hall, and she has the style and harmonic capabilities of all of the Supremes in one.

"From the very first show, we started moving around, because the music was making us dance," says Fitzpatrick.

"And very early on, Noelle and I started to push each other. And now it's to the point where she and I just do not stand still for one heartbeat. And when you're in a hot, sweaty little dance club, I soak my suit through every single night."

MUSIC'S MAKE OR BREAK TIME

Whether you're looking for some gifts for others or yourself, here are some upcoming releases.

With Thanksgiving and Halloween receding in the rear view mirror and with Christmas displays everywhere, it's time to look ahead to the final weeks of new releases for 2011. The fourth quarter is make-or-break time for labels and music retailers, which is why so many big-name releases are held back for the Christmas season.

Florence + The Machine - Ceremonials (Out now):

Fantastical sophomore record that neatly bridges all the gaps between Adele, Tori Amos and Kate Bush.

Lou Reed and Metallica - Lulu (Out now)

The Grumpiest Man in Rock and 'Tallica collaborate on songs based on a 100-year-old German play? Uh, OK.

Noel Gallagher - High Flying Birds (Tuesday)

The British music media is in full Noel-versus-Liam mode even as both brothers hint vaguely at an Oasis reconciliation. Are they hedging their bets already?

David Lynch - Crazy Clown Time (Tuesday)

Yes, it's the Blue Velvet/Twin Peaks guy. If you're a fan of either (or Eraser Head, Dune, Lost Highway, Mullholland Drive or any of his other works), you'll appreciate what he's done here.

Drake - Take Care (Nov 15)

It's a couple of weeks late — Drake wanted to have it out in time for his birthday on Oct. 24 — but he wanted to get it absolutely right.

REM - Part Lies, Part Heart, Part Truth, Past Garbage: 1982-2011 (Nov 15)

REM announced their breakup on Sept. 21 and they have a final greatest hits album in the stores less than two months later? That was quick.

JUSTIN BIEBER: OH, BABY!

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Poor Mariah Yeater. First the 20-year-old (allegedly!) had sex with Justin Bieber, then she (allegedly!) got pregnant by him, and now she's facing the wrath of millions of hormonal girls (not allegedly!) on the Internet.

Several Facebook hate-pages have sprung up bashing Yeater and Twitter is absolutely enflamed with misspelled hate-Tweets.

If Yeater is just filing this paternity suit for attention, she's getting it.

But I find this whole claim totally unbelievable as, really, have his testes even descended yet? But then again, I thought the marriage between Kim Kardashian and Kris Humphries would last to at least six months, so I've been wrong before.

Now we know where Demi Moore likes it

According to a source, Ashton Kutcher wasn't the only one cheating

While Ashton Kutcher has come under fire due to allegations of infidelity, new reports suggest Demi Moore might be in the same boat.

According to In Touch, Moore got more than a little friendly with a young pal of Kutcher's, actor Ben Hollingsworth, one night after picking him up from a party.

"They wound up having sex in the back of the car," a source claims. "It just kept going from there."

But not too far, as Hollingsworth reportedly called off the affair soon after. "He was getting to be better friends with Ashton and he felt bad about it," the source explains.

Sex in a car? Why do we need to know these graphic details, In Touch?

Between knowing Kutcher had sex in a hot tub and Moore in the back seat of a car, it's as though the two have something against a nice, ol' bed.

Jessica Biel doesn't 'kiss and tell'

While Jessica Biel has been spotted out and about plenty with ex-boyfriend Justin Timberlake, spurring plenty of reconciliation rumors, that doesn't mean the actress is ready to spill the beans.

"A girl doesn't kiss and tell," she says to Elle magazine when pressed on the topic.

But with Timberlake now establishing himself on screen, she's more than happy to talk about the propensity to date fellow actors.

"I think those are the people you meet and so it just kind of happens," says Biel. "Let me tell you: It never happens on purpose."

Gaga and Taylor Kinney: It's on!

HOOKING UP. Lady Gaga reportedly had so much fun making out with Vampire Diaries star Taylor Kinney during the shoot for her You and I video that she's reportedly decided to keep it going off-camera as well, according to Us Weekly. "They're hooking up and getting to know each other," a source says. But while the pair are said to be enjoying each other's company, it's not serious.

"Gaga can't be too committed because she works 24-7," says the source. "But she thinks he's super-cute."

Rihanna needs to cut out the booze

PARTYING. After Rihanna was forced to cancel a show in Malmo, Sweden due to flu-like symptoms, her medical team is reportedly advising her to cut down on her partying, according to the Sun.

"Rihanna is running on empty but she's still been going out drinking and living it up," a source says. "She spends most of her time in the studio, on stage or in clubs. Doctors are worried she's overdoing it." METRO

Masi Agricola's innovations

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

When it comes to superstar producers, the Italian wine industry has almost as many as a Justin Bieber album. There's Piedmont's Angelo Gaja, Tuscany's Giovanni di Piero Antinori and Veneto's Sandro Boscaini.

I recently had lunch with Boscaini — the President of Masi Agricola — and got a chance to talk with him about his famous wines and innovations his company brought to the industry.

It was "Mr. Masi's" father who originated the Ripasso method of wine making: A double fermentation of sorts with Valpolicella juice refermented on the semi-dried lees left over from the makings of a rich, weighty Amarone-style wine.

In 1964, the Masi Campofiorin ($17.95 - $18.99) was the first Ripasso wine to hit shelves and the current 2008 vintage carries on that long tradition. Inimitably drinkable with a smooth, raisin-meets-plum profile, it's an all-around food partner but with enough guts to stand on its own as a fall-friendly red to toast the up-coming time change.

What's with the hype over goat cheese?

In many parts of the world people eat goat cheese more than cheese from cows, and North America is catching on Upgrade your Panini

The dairy goat industry is growing by leaps and bounds in Canada.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada estimated goat milk production country-wide at more than 21 million litres in 2004. Today, estimates put production at close to 18 million litres in Ontario alone.

One significant reason for the demand is the "health benefits of the goat products," says Lindsay Gregory, marketing coordinator for Woolwich Dairy Inc., the largest goat cheese manufacturer in Canada. "Goat milk is lower in fat and lower in cholesterol, but it's still high in protein and calcium."

A 2005 Agriculture Canada report confirms that milk from dairy goats "has 13 per cent less lactose than cow milk and contains smaller milk-fat particles, making it easier to digest. In many cases, people with cow milk allergies have no trouble consuming goat milk."

Goat Cheese and Chopped Chicken Panini

Goat cheese, ricotta and Parmesan combine in this hearty panini. Serve it with a salad or fresh tomato slices and pickles.

Ingredients:

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each goat and ricotta cheese
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) Italian seasoning
- 1 tomato, sliced
- 2 focaccia buns, sliced in half
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) olive oil
- 2 cooked chicken breasts, chopped
- 250 ml (1 cup) baby spinach leaves
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) shaved Parmesan cheese
- Freshly ground black pepper

Preparation:

1. In a bowl, combine goat cheese, ricotta and Italian seasoning.
2. On a grilling surface, grill tomato slices until some char marks appear. Set aside.
3. Brush one side of each focaccia slice with oil. Place two slices on a work surface, oiled side down, and evenly layer with goat cheese mixture, chicken, spinach, tomatoes and Parmesan. Sprinkle with pepper. Cover with top halves, oiled side up, and press to pack.
4. Place sandwiches on grill, close the top plate and cook until golden brown, 3 to 4 minutes. Serve immediately.

Nothing beets it

Give your soup a bit — make that a lot — of colour by employing a combination of beets, potatoes and onions It makes a great snack

Beets offer up a jewel-like red colour to this soup and they are full of nutritional goodness and flavour. Beets are also an economical choice.

The soup is light and easy to make ahead and reheat. It stores perfectly in the refrigerator to warm up a bowl and curl up with on the couch and relax after a long day of work.

When making the Ruby Red Beet Soup, look for larger beets to save time peeling.

Ingredients:

- 750 g (1 1/2 lb) beets, peeled
- 1 onion
- 1 large baking potato, peeled
- 1.5 l (6 cups) sodium-reduced chicken broth
- 2 strips orange peel
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) red wine vinegar
- Salt and pepper
- Low-fat thick plain yogurt (such as Greek yogurt), for garnish
- Chopped fresh chives, for garnish

Preparation:

1. Shred the beets, onion and potato in food processor fitted with shredding disk (or use a box grater). Place vegetables in a large saucepan along with chicken broth and orange peel. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender.
2. Let cool slightly. Discard orange peel.
3. Puree vegetables in batches in a blender or food processor until smooth. Return to saucepan and reheat until hot. Remove from heat. Stir in vinegar; season with salt and pepper to taste. If making ahead, let cool, cover and refrigerate for up to 2 days. Reheat to serve.
4. Garnish each serving with a dollop of yogurt and sprinkling of chives.

Bombers say they're ready to win in Calgary

BOMBERS | STAMPEDERS

Time: 3 p.m., Saturday
TV: TSN

Doug Brown believes the time is right for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers to snap their ugly streak in southern Alberta.

The Bombers haven't beaten the Stampeders in Calgary since October 2002, but the 11-year veteran says that's about to change.

"It's a perfect situation for this team 'cause that's all we do — things out of the ordinary," the defensive tackle said after Thursday's practice. "Anything that is usual, expected, regular, we're not going to do that."

Calgary and Winnipeg both have 10-7 records and their playoff pictures may or may not clear up after the game.

A win and the Bombers get first place and the bye over the Montreal Alouettes (10-7). A loss and Winnipeg will have to hope the Als lose to the Lions in B.C. on Saturday night. If they finish tied, the Bombers get top spot for winning the season series.

The Stampeders could finish anywhere from first to third in the West Division, depending on how the Lions and Edmonton Eskimos (10-7) fair.

Jets improve to 3-1 on road trip as Pavelec shuts door on Long Island

JETS	ISLANDERS

Whether they are the Atlanta Thrashers or the Winnipeg Jets, this franchise enjoys its visits to Long Island.

Ondrej Pavelec stopped all 34 shots he faced and Evander Kane provided all the offence the Jets needed in a 3-0 victory over the New York Islanders on Thursday night.

The Thrashers-Jets franchise has 20 wins over the Islanders, and 12 have come on the road.

"We just wanted to play our game," Pavelec said. "We must have had at least 20 blocked shots, and the guys did a great job in front of me."

Johnny Oduya and Alexander Burmistrov also scored for the Jets, who have won three of four on their seven-game road trip. Winnipeg will continue its tour of the New York metropolitan area with a game at New Jersey on Saturday and one against the Rangers on Sunday.

Oduya gave the Jets an insurance goal with 3:56 left when he fired an in-close shot past New York goalie Rick DiPietro.

"It could have been a whole different game in the second period," Oduya said. "Our goalies have done a great job."

Burmistrov added an empty-netter with 2:16 remaining.

"The second period was a bit out of control," Winnipeg coach Claude Noel said. "But Pav bounced back. He's been really focused recently, and he held the fort."

DiPietro made 23 saves for the Islanders, who have lost six straight (0-4-2).

"We gave guys the opportunity to see what they can do," Islanders coach Jack Capuano said. "Now, the minutes don't mean anything. We need to win some games."

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 The Sun in Scorpio at this time of year can make things look worse than they are. Don't take them seriously.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Someone who can usually be counted on to support you will wonder aloud if you know what you are doing.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 If you push yourself a little bit harder, you will somehow get 10 times more done than you expected.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 There is no point in trying to keep whatever you're hiding from other people. Be open about it instead.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Make allowances for those who seem reluctant to get involved in whatever adventure you're planning.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 If you come across too stand-offish,it may work against long-term interests.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Personal and financial worries may be causing you sleepless nights but nothing much is likely to come of them.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Push yourself forward today and show the world what a unique and enterprising individual you are. Don't let opportunities go begging.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You have a hugely positive outlook on life and that's good because you are going to need it.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Don't keep your hopes and dreams a secret — let everyone know what it is you are planning to do.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You have a mountain to climb but if you get started now, it won't be long before you're at the summit.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Enjoy what fate brings your way but be aware too that cycles come and cycles go. SALLY BROMPTON
